

Seanachai

“Seanachai is the Gaelic/Irish word for storyteller. In the days before books and printing, the Seanachai travelled across Ireland recounting tales based on Celtic folklore and mythology. Through the art of storytelling, the Seanachai was able to bring communities together to share one story. More than ever before, communities need to work from a shared understanding to survive the challenges ahead”.